

Jason Scott Miller, the President's nominee to be Deputy Director for Management at the Office of Management and Budget.

Mr. Miller is a proven leader who is committed to getting results for the American people. He has an extensive track record of tackling difficult management challenges and driving innovation, both in the government and in the private sector.

Early in his career, as a management consultant, Mr. Miller advised large companies with operations across the globe, helping them tackle strategic and operational challenges. As Deputy Director of the National Economic Council from 2011 to 2017, Mr. Miller spearheaded many governmentwide initiatives, including the creation of Manufacturing USA institutes and SelectUSA—new efforts to spur job creation by strengthening manufacturing and bringing investment to the United States.

He was also instrumental in driving the passage of bipartisan legislation in 2016 to address the crisis in Puerto Rico and in developing the first-ever Federal policy on automated vehicles.

OMB is and will continue to be central to the administration's efforts to combat the pandemic and spur economic recovery in communities all across our Nation.

Mr. Miller's experience taking on a diverse range of challenges and his commitment to getting results have prepared him well to serve as OMB's Deputy Director for Management.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the confirmation of Jason Scott Miller as Deputy Director for Management at OMB.

I yield the floor.

250TH ANNIVERSARY OF WINSLOW, MAINE

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise today to commemorate the 250th birthday of the town of Winslow, ME. Winslow is a town with a fascinating history and a bright future, connected by generations of hard-working and caring people.

Winslow was incorporated in 1771, but its story began long before. For thousands of years, the land along the great Kennebec River was the home of the Abenaki Tribe, who hunted, fished, and tilled the fertile soil. The reverence the Abenaki had for the natural beauty and resources of the region is upheld by the people of Winslow today.

Winslow's roots run deep into American history. It originally was a Native American settlement called Taconock, meaning "in the trees." Located in central Maine along the mighty Kennebec River, the village was settled by colonists from Plymouth Colony.

Winslow is home to important historical sites. One of those sites, Fort Halifax, the oldest blockhouse in the United States, was constructed by the town's namesake, General John Winslow, in 1754 and named after the Earl of Halifax, Secretary of State of Great Britain. Fort Halifax was designated as a National Historic Landmark in 1968.

Today, visitors and residents enjoy this historic site at what is now Fort Halifax Park. This land was once home to industrial and commercial use after a railroad line was built in the 1840s to transport goods from local mills. Years later, the site was developed into a park which is now enjoyed for recreation, picnics, and holiday festivities.

Winslow's Ticonic Footbridge, known by locals as the Two Cent Bridge, is one of the oldest footbridges and the last known toll footbridge in the United States. The bridge, built in 1903, connects the two communities of Winslow and Waterville. For several generations, residents of Winslow crossed the bridge daily to work at the Waterville mills.

Winslow honors the men and women who defend our freedom. Central Maine Veterans Memorial Park was the dream of a group of veterans led by WWII Navy veteran Daniel DeRoch. With the collaboration of town officials, schools, residents, and veterans organizations, this park pays tribute to all who served in the U.S. Army, Marine Corps, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, National Guard, and Merchant Marine.

Mr. President, Winslow has played an important role in Maine history, and it continues to exemplify the best of our great State today. I congratulate to the people of Winslow on this landmark anniversary and wish them all the best in the years to come.

250TH ANNIVERSARY OF WINTHROP, MAINE

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise today to commemorate the 250th birthday of the town of Winthrop, ME. This landmark anniversary is a time to celebrate the generations of hard-working and caring people who have made it
